KETCHIKAN, ALASKA
Built around salmon canneries and sawmills, Ketchikan was once proclaimed the “Salmon Capital of the World.” Its rich, unique culture is always on display; an outstanding collection of totem poles makes a visit to Ketchikan essential for anyone interested in Native art. Or experience the Alaskan wilderness firsthand with a fishing excursion aboard a private skiff, or perhaps explore the Tongass National Forest – the nation’s largest – rich with wildlife and the peaceful aura of the North Country.

JUNEAU, ALASKA
Founded in 1880 when Joe Juneau and Richard Harris struck gold, the thriving town of Juneau offers an eclectic mix of people and pastimes. This is the capital of Alaska, but politics is only a small part of the experience here. The downtown streets feature upscale shopping with a traditional twist among authentic Alaskan totems and art. In the background, you’ll always find spectacular mountain scenery. The famous Mendenhall Glacier is just outside town, and even a casual observer in Juneau is likely to spot bald eagles, humpback whales and perhaps even a black bear.

HUBBARD GLACIER, ALASKA
Hubbard Glacier is the longest tidewater glacier in Alaska, with an open calving face over six miles wide. The ice at the foot of Hubbard Glacier is about 400 years old; it takes that long for ice to traverse the length of the glacier. Where the glacier meets the shore, most of the ice is below the waterline, and newly calved icebergs can shoot up quite dramatically. Due to this, ships must keep their distance as they ply their way up and down the coast.

ICY STRAIT POINT (HOONAH), ALASKA
Hoonah means “where the north wind doesn’t blow” in the language of the Tlingit Indians, who make up about 70% of the population of this village on the lee side of Chichagof Island. However, wildlife outnumbers everyone, so watch for bears, eagles, and humpback whales, which migrate here in the summer.

SITKA, ALASKA
Called Shee Atika by the Tlingit Indians, then New Archangel by the Russians who ousted them, Sitka boasts a multicultural heritage. Two dozen of its attractions are on the National Register of Historic Places, including Castle Hill and Building 29, a structure built by the Russians in 1835. The Sheldon Jackson Museum exhibits one of Alaska’s oldest native culture collections.

WRANGLELL, ALASKA
Once a Tlingit Indian stronghold, then a Russian outpost, and finally an American settlement in 1867, Wrangell honors the dramatic changes it has endured. See a preserved tribal house on Chief Snakes Island. Learn about the three gold rushes that transformed the area in the Wrangell Museum. See the ancient petroglyphs carved into the rocks on the nearby beaches.

VICTORIA, B.C., CANADA
Rich with its deep British heritage and overflowing with cosmopolitan charm, Victoria is a town where High Tea and world-class flower gardens are part of everyday life. Here in western Canada’s oldest city, Victorian and Edwardian-era mansions stand near elegant shops offering the latest European fashion. From many viewpoints, including Dallas Road, you can catch breathtaking views of the waterfront and the surrounding mountains and ocean.

Shore excursions are not included. In each port of call you may select from a variety of optional shore excursions for an additional charge, some of which are referenced in the descriptions above.

Go Next will offer a unique collection of Oceania Cruises shore excursions; available for purchase approximately 4 months prior to departure.
